EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

May was an exciting month, as the Class of 2020 got to return to Grounds to walk the Lawn, and the Class of 2021 celebrated Final Exercises in person as well. This month’s content focused on the graduates and their accomplishments, and coverage of Final Exercises for each class.

In May, UVA Today earned nearly 500,000 pageviews, a 5% month over month increase from April. Throughout 2021, UVA Today monthly pageviews have been relatively consistent, with little variability each month. Though there haven’t been many “breakout” stories to drive new or unexpected traffic to the site, the stable performance suggests consistent readership from our core audience group.

Despite a significant amount of content produced in May was related to Final Exercises and the Class of 2020 and Class of 2021 graduates, this content did not necessarily dominate in terms of performance, at least on the UVA Today site and within email products. Top stories this month included those about John Grisham’s new book, Dean Groves departure, and the “Break the Internet” viral video (first published in April).

Key Takeaway: With in-person Final Exercises, it is possible that readers were more focused on the events themselves than the online coverage. While all content related to last year’s Virtual Celebration had to be consumed online, community members were able to celebrate in person this year, which may have taken some emphasis off of the need for online consumption.

Social Media saw improved performance across all channels this month, with average reach and engagement rates improving across Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and LinkedIn. Twitter and LinkedIn saw major increases in engagement rate of 183% and 193%, respectively.

Key Takeaway: Social performance was driven by Final Exercises content. On Instagram, user generated content (re-shared photos from graduates) made it into top posts for the month, and on Twitter, a fun Tweet about Jay Huff’s graduation cap was particularly popular. These fun, celebratory posts resonated with audiences across all platforms.

The below graph shows cumulative UVA Today pageviews from FY19 through FY21 with projected final pageviews for FY21. The dotted orange line represents estimated pageviews had the COVID-19 pandemic not taken over in FY20.

* FY20 Est. Non-COVID cumulative pageviews calculated by taking avg. FY20 monthly pageviews through February 2020, plus 10% for a conservative estimate. This is intended to represent what FY20 may have looked like without the impact of a global pandemic.
The below graph shows FY21 vs FY20 pageviews by month.

* September 2019 pageviews were driven by top performing stories about Tony Bennett declining a raise, Bryce Perkins shoutout, and The Good Old Song.
 February 2020 was a leap year, and therefore included an extra day of pageviews.
 March & April 2020 pageviews were driven by communications regarding COVID-19 and its impact on university operations.

The following two slides contain Parse.ly tag performance year to date and for the current month. Below are some notes outlining how this data is compiled.

Data for these slides reflect pageviews for stories that were published within the respective timeframe (year to date, during the given month). It does not contain data for stories published outside of those date ranges. Pageviews are counted during the given date range, and do not include latent pageviews beyond the current month.

Pageview data for a given page are collected from the time a tag is applied to that story. For this reason, if tags are added to stories retroactively after they are published, Parse.ly will only report pageviews from the time the tag was applied, and not total lifetime pageviews for that story. Stories may be tagged in multiple categories, which is why different tags may have the same top performing story, as there is overlap.

Due to differences with Parse.ly tracking and Google Analytics tracking, data included in these slides will not exactly match other reports that utilize Google Analytics data. Parse.ly does not integrate perfectly with stories posted on the Illimitable platform, and pageviews for those stories may be inaccurate.

The below graph shows new Daily Report subscribers since event tracking was implemented in Google Analytics. May saw a 30% increase in new subscribers, likely as a result of the graduation “handshake” ads which were run during Final Exercises.
During Final Exercises, a House Ad was run encouraging graduating students to subscribe to the Daily Report so that they continue receiving it. This ad was highly effective in driving subscriptions throughout the weekend.

- 754 clicks on the House Ad
- 247 new Daily Report subscribers
